

School Infrastructure and Program Development Report CREAMLAND NURSERY AND PRIMARY SCHOOL- KIREKA

School Background

The school started in 2006 and serves the children of the Kireka slum where there are very few opportunities for schooling. The area is one of the poorest in Africa, being home to thousands of families from the north of Uganda displaced by the Lord's Resistance Army which ravaged that area from 1996 until very recently. Many of the refugees are Acholi women and children who were abused by these rebels before fleeing south.

In 2014 the school was adopted by The Andtex Training and Care Organization (TATCO Uganda), a nonprofit organization currently operating in Central Uganda with the aim of developing the community school with both school infrastructure and school management programs. Over 700 students are registered at Creamland school which offers education from pre-kindergarten through grade 7.

TATCO Uganda and with the support from its development partner Classrooms For Africa since 2015 has been providing financial support to upgrade the school by building infrastructures which include classrooms, ground leveling, toilets, provision of classroom furniture and other school supplies.
